Live and Let Live Folks

Saturday was surely one BIG DAY in Lancaster.

There was food a plenty and then some for the enormous crowd.

We move that The Fall Celebration on October 4th be made an annual affair.

The Moose band can make good music and came in for many compliments.

The merchants almost to a man express satisfaction at the result of Saturdays "Big Day".

No liquor in evidence Saturday and the crowd was orderly and quiet and everyone seemed to enjoy the day.

Joe Cabell Ramsey who won the Record pony is bedding the little fellow on a mattress. That is sure taking care of him right.

The square presented a "breaking up housekeep" Sunday morning, but it has been cleaned again and we hope all will aid in keeping it so.

The crowd was variously estimated from two to four thousand. It is hard to judge, but our judgment would be that there were about 2500 people here last Saturday.

The deplorable accident of last Saturday which cost little Gilbert East his life, had absolutely no connection with the celebration being held in Lancaster on that day, although it threw a damper over the spirits of many who were present.

Lancaster merchants while they reaped a liberal reward from the display of last Saturday, will yet feel the effects of it in the future, they succeeded in demonstrating to the people of the county that they had the goods and it was not necessary to go away from home to obtain what they needed, that it was right here for them and at prices more reasonable than in adjoining towns or from mail order houses.

Stop neglecting to return borrowed books. Stop indulging in more than 100 pounds of self-content to the square inch. Stop supposing that the world could not get on well without you. Stop looking at the dark side of life. Stop furnishing your friends with the minute particulars of your bodily ailments. Stop taking pessimistic views of men, things and the theory of the universe. Stop working too hard.
Stop working not hard enough. Stop writing to famous people for their autographs. Stop procrastinating.
Stop sending to newspapers "Something I've just dashed off and haven't stopped to correct."

Battle of Ballots

Now Matter of History.

The Central Record's Big Prize Contest closed last Saturday afternoon after one of the hardest fought in the history of voting ballots in this part of the state. It was the most successful contest ever put on by the Record and resulted in a most substantial increase in its circulation. The rivalry of the contest was animated and until the judges had made their final count, it was impossible to predict to whom victory would fall.

We, the undersigned, named to act as judges and make the final count in the Central Record's Big Prize Contest, were present and took charge of the ballot box at 2 p. m. Saturday, Oct. 4th, and immediately proceeded to count the votes. The counting was completed at a late hour Saturday afternoon and the result made known to the management of the contest. The figures given below are the result of our count.

Winner—The Capital Prize, a pony and outfit	7,298,800 votes
Mr. Joe Cabell Ramsey.
Winners of the District Prizes.—District No. 1.
First Prize—A diamond ring, Lillie May Jones	1,942,900 votes
Second Prize—An Elgin Watch, Miss Della Rice Hughes.	1,485,400 "
Third Prize—A Ruby Ring, Christine Pollitt	1,280,600 "
Fourth Prize—A Cut Glass Fruit Bowl, Mayme Lee Marsee	807,400 "
District No. 2.
First Prize—A Diamond Ring, Miss Lillie May Sutton	3,101,200 "
Second Prize—A Diamond Ring, Judith James Daniels	2,899,100 "
Third Prize—An Elgin Watch, Christine Prewitt,	1,856,900 "
Fourth Prize—An Elgin Watch, Ina Scott	1,275,300 "
Fifth Prize—A Ruby Ring, Anna Banks,	1,103,200 "
Sixth Prize—A Ruby Ring, Ruth Lane,	1,019,100 "
Seventh Prize—A Cut Glass Fruit Bowl, Bulah Sutton	748,800 "
Eighth Prize—A Cut Glass Fruit Bowl, Nellie Beazley	648,800 "

Baptist Ladies Aid will have an exchange at W. B. Ball's store every Saturday. Everything good to eat.

Most of the merchants are so well pleased with Fall Fashion Day, they want to make it permanent and have such days semi-annual.

Capt. Am Bourne who cried the Kuhman sale at Lowell Tuesday, reported a good crowd and house furniture sold well. 1 mare for $161. Store house and lot $1,000, about $500, worth of goods at 60 per cent. Fixtures $130, barn and lot $385, coal scales $25. Am sells for the high dollar and always gets it.

Late But Plucky.

Little Miss Christine Prewitt, the seven year old daughter of Mr. Alex Prewitt of Hackley, who won one of the Record's prizes in the recent contest, certainly deserves a great measure of credit for the plucky fight she made. Christine only entered the contest three weeks before its close, but during the short time she was in she certainly made it interesting for those in the lists against her, and had she had just a little earlier start she would have been a strong contender for the pony and cart. If all of her endeavors in the future are marked with the same energy and success as was this, her first battle, she is certainly of a successful career. She surely has the congratulations and well wishes of the Record.

Rankin-Rousseau.

Miss Mary Margaret Rankin and Mr. William Rousseau were married at the home of the brides parents on the old Danville Pike at 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, and left immediately following the ceremony for Danville, where they boarded the train for their bridal journey, which will include a visit to relatives in Tuscola Ill., a short stay in Kansas City and other Western cities, the end of the journey being their future home in Phoenix Ariz. The wedding was a quiet one, only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties and a few close friends being present; the ceremony was performed by Rev. S. H.
Pollitt of the Methodist church, in his most impressive style. The bride wore a handsome blue tailor made gown, while the groom was arrayed in the conventional black.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rankin, and is one of the most popular girls who ever left Lancaster. She was graduated from the Lancaster High School, where she was popular alike with teachers and schoolmates, after which she matriculated at Madison Female Institute at Richmond, graduating from that establishment last year.
Her many accomplishments, lovable disposition and great popularity combined to make of her a helpmate of whom any man might feel justly proud, and Mr. Rousseau is indeed to be congratulated upon the winning of such a bride.

The groom is a prosperous young ranchman of Phoenix Ariz. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Rousseau, formerly of Somerset Kv., and is a great nephew of Gen. Rousseau, the noted Federal General of Civil war fame.

Mr. Rousseau, though comparatively a young man, has succeeded in winning his way in a very substantial manner in the far western home of his adoption, and he certainly exhibited great wisdom in returning to the land of his birth to secure a life partner to share his fortunes through life.
The congratulations of a host of well wishes and friends all over this section of Kentucky will follow Mr. and Mrs.
Rousseau to their distant home, in which the Record heartily joins.

Tobacco is about all housed and the farmer is busily engaged in sowing wheat and cutting corn.

Garrard's Next Sheriff.

Mr. Curt A. Robinson, of Garrard county, was in town yesterday. Mr.
Robinson was nominated, at the recent primary, for sheriff of Garrard, and his popularity will be attested at the coming election by his receiving the largest majority ever given a candidate in that county.—Messenger.

A Word Of Just Praise.

Now that the contest is over and the prizes have been awarded we feel that it would be but an act of justice to say a word of praise for the gentlemen who conducted it. The contest was under the control and supervision of the W.
C. Potts Contest Co. of Detroit Mich.
Mr. Potts spending considerable time here and assisting in the conduct of the contest. Mr. Brad W. Chaffin of Louisia Ky., was in active control and was here during the entire time that the contest was in progress, and we desire to say, and we believe that all of our people who had the pleasure of meeting with them will concur with us, that these were two as high minded
gentlemen as ever visited Lancaster.
They were without bias or prejudice as between candidates, were uniformly courteous and polite to all with whom they came in contact and succeeded in impressing upon the minds of everyone interested the fact that the contest was to be conducted absolutely fair and upon high planes and that ever contestant should have every vote that was cast for them. Mr. Chaffin became a Benedict during his stay in Lancaster and his newly wedded wife joined him shortly after his arrival here and both of them made many friends while here who regret sincerely their departure.
We may never conduct another affair of this kind, but if we should ever contemplate such a thing again, we most assuredly if possible would secure the services of these two elegant gentlemen to manage it.

Board Of Councilmen With L. G. David- son For Mayor.

City politics has been interesting talk for several days in Lancaster. This is so every two years. A Mayor is elected every four years and a Board of Council every two years.

There are persons and interests who always want a Board to serve their purposes, and it is not always easy to get a Mayor and entire Board who can be depended upon to guard the peoples interests above the designing influences at all times, and at the same time see that we have peace and order in the city. The following gentlemen we believe will serve the interest of the public if elected. If they would not we feel sure that it would be impossible to get a set of men in this city that would do so. Petitions are being circulated to get printed upon the ballots at the November election the following who are candidates at the instance of the people, L. G. Davidson for Mayor, for Councilmen, J. A. Amon, J. P.
Gregory, O. G. Goodloe, W. M. Zanone,
H. C. Hamilton and J. T. Raney.

L. G. Davidson is one of the most popular and successful business men of the city and will make an ideal Mayor.
The Board associated with him are all sober, industrious, successful and active business men of the city. They are pledged to no interest and are perfectly free to look after the interest of the city without the dictation of any one from the outside. It is reported that there is an effort made to get another Board but we feel that the above gentlemen will satisfy the people of the city and that no other persons will desire to bring on a fight, unless some designing persons have something to put over on the people.

There is a possibility of the administration of President Woodrow Wilson not being a success, but we are inclined to the belief that there is scarcely the probability of such a happening. His every undertaking so far has been fraught with well meaning, "the greatest good to the greatest number", liberally interspersed with keen perception and showing an intimate acquaintance with the needs of the country and the subject with which he grappled. His latest achievement was the tariff law, a subject that has been a thorn in the side of every administration since the establishment of commercial relation between this and foreign countries. The efforts of Mr. Wilson and his associates who assisted in the formulation of the measure gives flattering promises of success.

It is claimed for the newly created law that it will materially lessen the cost of living, and as the very best way to reach the heart of the American citizen is through his pocketbook, if the hopes and predictions of these wise men who have done what they need and believe is for the best, there need be no uneasiness as to the future of the cause of Democracy in this country for many years to come.

Just what the outcome will be, whether or not the revised tariff bill will do what is claimed for it, is problematical. The results will of a necessity be slow in making their appearance, but we are firm in our belief that they will surely materialize and very much to the advantage of our people. We can but wait patiently the result and in the meantime we are unshaken in our faith in the wisdom and far sightedness of President Woodrow Wilson.

That the Merchants Opening Day held in Lancaster on last Saturday was a success in so far as attaining the object sought, exploiting the goods and promoting the home trade, is absolutely undeniable. There is not a merchant in the town but must confess that he was benefitted by the holding of this little celebration as it might be called for their benefit. Nor is the reaping of the harvest yet complete, many people who came in to look around ascertained just what to be had in Lancaster, and at what prices, and later along when they are ready to buy, will come in and patronize their home merchants.

Lancaster has been somewhat behind in the matter of advertising home business, and this latest exploit fully demonstrates the fact that "advertising pays."

It has been suggested, and very wisely, that this event be made, not an annual, but a semi-annual affair, that such an event be held in the spring and fall of each year, and for the purpose of financing such a scheme and in order that it may not appear to fall too heavily upon the shoulders of those interested, it has been suggested that an organization be at once formed, something along the lines of a Commercial Club, with regular dues, and these dues will in a very short time, though small of themselves, amount to a sufficient sum to pay the expense of providing attractions which will bring such a crowd as was here last Saturday to the city twice each year, at such a time as may be deemed advisable by the merchants themselves, and which will be greatest to their advantage. This proposition is well worth consideration, and it would be a splendid idea to form just such an organization without delay, and by the coming of spring and the arrival of new goods there will be a fund sufficient already accumulated to give a celebration equal to if not greater than the one just held.

This suggestion is well worth your consideration Mr. Merchant, and we believe it would be a wise move for you to get busy at once and organize a "Merchants Publicity Association", or something similar, having this object in view.

There has been a great deal of talk about detaining or deporting Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, when she arrives in America. The immigration authorities, and Washington itself, seem to be of several minds in regard to the matter. Mrs. Pankhurst may be classified as an "undesirable citizen", guilty of bad conduct in her own country and therefore ineligible to enter the United States. For our part we would like to see her come in and try some of her brick throwing and house burning here. One thing she will find out in a short time, and that is the methods by which she gained notoriety in England are not in favor with the women of this country and certainly will not be countenanced by the men.

If, to use a slang expression, the English militant suffragette leader starts a "rough house" campaign, she will be sufficiently dealt with, by city state and national authorities, to hold her for awhile. As to the talk about her corrupting American women, we have no fear, but on the other hand we think it will do her good to associate with women who have won the ball in eleven states with ways and means that are peaceful rather than by force. Perhaps American women will give her a few lessons in sweet reasonableness, the use of logic and persuasion, rather than of the strong arm. Mrs. Pankhurst may or may not be desirable but we want her to come for we want to show her that the great overwhelming sanity of this country, is able to throw off all "evil humors" just as a healthy body can resist the inroads of bacilli; just as we resisted the influence of Emma Goldman, John Most and a few others.

The Clark county grand jury before its final adjournment returned eight indictments against as many of the citizens of the county for "bribery", the basis of the indictments being the traffic in votes at the recent August primary election. These indictments were directly the result of the fearless stand taken by Judge James M. Benton and his strenuous instruction to the grand jury, which resulted in one of the most prominent citizens of the county being fined and incarcerated for refusal to tell what he knew in regard to the buying and selling of votes or the furnishing of funds for that purpose.

The result of the rigid probe being made by Judge Benton will doubtless have the effect of starting similar proceedings in other districts of the state, and there is no telling just where the matter will end, but it is sincerely hoped that the ultimate result will be the eradication from the entire state of this nefarious practice, and that elections in the near future will be entirely free from undue influence and will be conducted along entirely different lines from what has been the custom in many localities in the past.

It can't rain until it frosts and it can't frost until it rains, so we are in a terrible fix.

Phoenix Hotel Cup Coffee.

The Woolfolk Coffee Company, of Lexington, furnished all the coffee that was used Fall FashionDay. This company added many admiring friends to its large list of patrons, for every one that took a cup of it was heard to remark, "well this is the best coffee I ever drank".

Miss Coyle, of Lexington, made and demonstrated the coffee and she may well be termed "Queen of the coffee urn", for she can make better coffee and serve more people in a given time than any one we ever saw.

The business of this firm is constantly increasing, owing to the fact that the "Phoenix Hotel Cup Coffee" is the very best goods that can be had. Mr. Jeff Dunn, an ex-Garrardite, is one of the head of this popular firm, and applies the Golden Rule to every transaction, and is "there with the goods" whenever the occasion demands.

Auspicious Opening Of Buena Vista Graded School.

The Buena Vista Consolidated School opened under the most auspicious conditions Monday Oct. 6th, promptly at 8:30 o'clock. The handsome new transportation wagons drove into the school yard loaded with happy faced boys and girls.

While no special program had been arranged a number of the patrons had gathered to show their appreciation of the great educational awakening in Garrard county.

Dr. E. H. Pearce conducted the devotional exercises and gave a most inspiring talk. Mr. Isaac Hackley the newly elected principal, made a pleasing talk in which he won all the students for his friends as well as secured the hearty co-operation of the patrons who were present.

The school is indeed an honor to our efficient County Superintendent Miss Higgins, the Board of trustees and to the faithful progressive men and women of the neighborhood, who have so loyally stood back of it all with their influence and their means.

It Helps Appearances.

Lancaster merchants are growing liberal with the paint brush and several store fronts are being newly decorated, all of which adds materially to the appearance of the town.

Ed. C. Gaines Indisposed.

Under the advice of his physician, Mr. E. C. Gaines our popular insurance agent, is spending a few days at Crab Orchard. His friends are hoping for his speedy recovery and return. Mr. Ira Holtzclaw can be found at Mr. Gaines office and will be glad to accommodate you along the line of insurance.

Judge Walker Buys Home.

Judge Lewis L. Walker has purchased of Mr. F. G. Hurt his home on Water street and will move into it as soon as some improvements can be made. The price paid was $2500. Mr. Hurt will move this week to the residence on Hill street recently purchased of Mr. J. F. Robinson.

Distance Annihilators.

Messrs James Hilton and Charles Zanone have just purchased two Harley-Davidson motorcycles and are prepared to annihilate distance and any other small obstacle that might by chance get in their way.

The machines were purchased through Mr. Bristol Conn, of Danville, and are said to be one of the best on the market.

"Kentucky Red Berkshire Association" Incorporated.

Articles of Incorporation for the "Kentucky Red Berkshire Association" of Stanford have been filed at Frankfort with a capital stock of $300. The names of Messrs A. K. and Woods Walker and J. G. Burnside appear among the names of the incorporators. The object of the Association is to "Promote the breeding of Red Berkshire hogs."

MR. JOHN B. PARKS.

Banker, Farmer, Stockman and Elegant Gentleman, Formerly of Garrard County Dies at His Home in Richmond.

Mr. John B. Parks died at his home in Richmond Ky., last Friday afternoon after a lingering illness of hardening of the arteries, and his remains were laid at rest in the Richmond cemetery on Sunday afternoon. He was 69 years of age. Until a few years ago when he was forced by failing health to give up the active life of a farmer, Mr. Parks was a resident of Garrard county living at Paint Lick. He had a host of friends throughout the county, many of whom have made frequent pilgrimages to his bedside during his recent illness.

Mr. Parks' death marks the passing of another one of Garrard county's noted followers of the chase; intimate friend and for many years the near neighbor of the famous "Walker Bros", two of whom have crossed to the Great Beyond in recent years, he had gained world wide fame through his love of the sport and his connection with the National Fox Hunters Association. Mr. Parks' wife who preceded him to the grave was a Miss Wallace, a sister of Mrs. Ann Robinson, of Lancaster. Mr. Parks served three years with the Sixth Kentucky Cavalry in the Union Army during the Civil War. He had served as president of the National Fox Hunters' Association. He was a director of the Citizens' National Bank. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Bolton Kilgore, of San Angelo, Texas, and Miss Jennie Parks, of this city, and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Nannie P. Smith, Mrs. W. W. Watts, Mrs. Nannie P. Embury and James B. Parks, and a half-brother and sister, S. S. Parks and Mrs. James Wilmore, all of Richmond.

A great number of people of this city and the Paint Lick section attended the funeral.

We are receiving daily all kinds of new can goods and evaporated fruits. Come in to see us and let us show you what we have. W. B. Ball.

Tobacco Crop Better Than Anticipated.

The oft repeated prediction of the Record that Garrard county will have fully a 75 per cent tobacco crop this year seems certain of fulfillment. In calculating the crop every pound must be taken into consideration, regardless of its character. The recent rains and the favorable weather following added many hundreds of pounds to that part of the weed remaining in the field; plants that were abandoned and thought would make nothing, under favorable conditions, expanded and turned out a very fair article. The crop while not up to the standard of previous years in quality is upon the whole fairly good, some of it excellent in quality, while the quantity far exceeds the expectation of the most sanguine. Our farmers have just cause for rejoicing that it is so good in the face of the severe drought and other unfavorable conditions which threatened the crop, and with the vision of good prices before their eyes, they are anticipating a more prosperous year than they had expected.

Record's Contest Closed Last Saturday Afternoon, The Prizes Were Awarded, And We Believe The Result Gave General Satisfaction.

The Record's Big Contest closed on last Saturday afternoon and the prizes were awarded to the successful contestants, and from the various expressions of opinion which we have heard, we are constrained to the belief that the result gave general satisfaction.

Our one aim during the conduct of this affair has been that it should be absolutely fair, that it could and should not be said that any one candidate should have any unfair advantage over another one. To this end we have been studious in our efforts to have all connected with the Record office to know just as little as possible about the contest, leaving the entire management of the contest in the hands of Messrs Potts and Chaffin, both of whom were wholly disinterested and whom we knew to be absolutely fair and honest. How well our efforts were prolific of fruit is to be seen by the general satisfaction expressed at the outcome. When the closing time came and the count was to be made, we chose three men whom we felt had the esteem and confidence of the entire community, and left in their hands the stupendous work of counting the ballots. Messrs W. F. Champ, R. T. Embury and J. W. Elmore spent several hours over this arduous task, and when their duties were performed, there was nothing left to be done except to announce the result and distribute the prizes.

While the Contest, from a financial point of view, was not a great success to the Record, yet we are well pleased with the result, we have succeeded in adding very materially to our subscription list, bringing the list well up with the lists of other newspapers in its class in Central Kentucky, and this of course means something to us, even more than the satisfaction of knowing of the increase.

To those whose names have been added to our lists as new subscribers as well as to our old friends who have long been with us, we desire to say that we shall exert our every effort to give you a readable paper, we shall endeavor to chronicle just as carefully as possible the news of the town and county, and the world at large in condensed form, in fact we expect to give to our readers everything in the news line which we think would interest you, and to improve upon our service continually in every manner possible.

We wish to thank sincerely everyone who in any manner contributed to the success of the contest, and to our personal thanks we wish to add the thanks of the little contestants whose hearts, thanks to your kindness and assistance were made glad by the distribution of the handsome prizes.

DEPLORABLE ACCIDENT.

Little Gilbert East's Life Crushed Out Beneath The Wheels Of A Wagon On Last Saturday.

Gilbert, the little six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter East of Buckeye, had his little life crushed out beneath the wheels of a two horse wagon on last Saturday. The little fellow had come to town with his uncle, Barnett, the fifteen year old son of Mr. Owen East of Buckeye, on a two horse wagon. They came for some cement and seed rye and after making their purchases started for home. When near the farm of Dr. J. B. Kinnaird on the Buckeye pike, near the foot of the "town hill", Barnett descended from the wagon and went across the fence at the side of the road for some purpose, leaving little Gilbert on the seat holding the lines. The restiveness of the mules in jerking their heads probably jerked the little fellow from the seat and the mules moved forward the front wheel of the wagon passing across the chest of the helpless stricken boy, and before his horror stricken uncle could reach him the little body was so crushed as to place him beyond recovery. A young man passing gathered him in his arms and hurried to town with him in his buggy, taking him to the home of Mr. J. D. Guiley, where medical aid was summoned and everything possible was done, but so seriously was the little body crushed that there was absolutely no hope and he died within an hour after being taken into the house. The parents were at once summoned, and the grief of the heart broken mother at the sudden death of her little son was distressing. For a while she could not be comforted, and it was some time before the kindly ladies who surrounded her in their efforts to be of assistance, could persuade her to leave the little body to be prepared for burial.

The remains were taken to the funeral home near Buckeye on Saturday afternoon and on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock all that was mortal, the little bruised and broken body was laid to rest in the cemetery at Buckeye. The accident was an unusually pathetic one and the hearts of all who know of it goes out to the grief stricken mother and father in their sudden and severe loss.

Advise Us If You Do Not Get Your Paper.

A great number of contestants securing subscriptions for the Record will of a necessity cause more or less confusion for a while, and if your paper is not coming to you or is being addressed to the wrong office, if you will kindly communicate with us, either personally or by letter, we will be glad to see that your grievance is rectified promptly.

The Original "Handy Man".

Capt. Ambrose Bourne, the veteran auctioneer rendered splendid service in handling the big crowd last Saturday. He seemed to be everywhere at exactly the right time, he assisted in preserving order in the Park, kept back the crowd and kept everybody in a good humor and to a great extent succeeded in checking the natural impatience of the crowd at the necessary delay in announcing the successful contestants in the Record's contest, and in many other ways made himself useful at a time when just such men are in great demand.

Matrimonial.

The matrimonial pot has been boiling merrily of late and circuit clerk J. W. Hamilton reports a thriving business along that line. The following couples secured license:

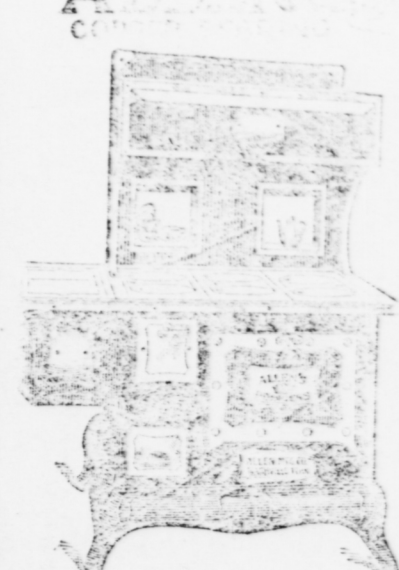

Nannie Baker age 20 of Lancaster and Harvey Brock 22 of Crab Orchard were married at the home of the bride in this city on Sept. 29th, Rev. Pollitt officiating. The bride is the daughter of J. W. Baker the local concrete worker and the groom is a young Lincoln county farmer.

May Howard 23 and Joe Gill 25, both of the Buckeye section were married by Rev. Pollitt at the clerk's office on the 1st inst.

Florence Grow, 16 and Frank Hume 19 were married in Richmond on Oct. 1st by Rev. Williams. The bride is the daughter of the late George G. Grow, and lived at Hackley. She is a beautiful and charming young lady and has a host of friends in that locality; the groom is a son of S. H. Hume of Kirksville and is a prosperous young farmer.

Woodson Brock, 35 and Mary B. Brock 39, both of the Cartersville section secured license and were married at that place on the 6th of the month.

Miss Nancy Bargo and Mr. William Poff of this city drove to Danville on last Thursday and were made man and wife. They are both well known in Lancaster where they have many friends and well wishers.

Easy To Criticise.

It is easy to sit in the sunshine,
And talk to the man in the shade.
It is easy to float in a well-trimmed boat,
And point out the places to wade.
But once we pass into the shadows,
We murmur and fret and frown
And our length from h't a k we shout
for a plank,
Or throw up our hands and go down.
It is easy to sit in your carriage
And counsel the man on foot;
But get down and walk and you'll change your talk,
As you feel the peg in your boot.

It is easy to tell the toiler,
How best he can carry his pack;
But no one can rate a laden's weight,
Until it has been on his back.
The up-curl'd mouth of pleasure,
Can preach of sorrow's worth;
But give it a sip, and a wryer lip,
Was never made on earth.

The infant son of Mr and Mrs Henry Dunn died Sunday morning. Age nineteen months. The angel came and took his precious little soul to the arms of Jesus who so tenderly blessed them while on earth. After some very appropriate remarks made by Rev J W Beagle, the remains were laid to rest in a sweet shady spot in the cemetery at this place.

A very, very sad death occurred Saturday afternoon. While returning from Lancaster with one of Mr Owen East's sons little Gilbert, age about six years, son of Mr and Mrs Walter East fell from a wagon which ran over his little body and caused his death. After calling for his mother and father perhaps to tell them goodbye, the death angel bore the sweet little spirit to that Heavenly home above to await father, mother, sister and brother. After funeral services which were conducted by Rev J W Beagle, the body was laid to rest in the cemetery here.

The Record's Big Contest Now A Matter Of History.

The Central Record's Big Prize Contest is now a matter of history. The official standing tells the story of the great race in which the balloting ended at 2 P M last Saturday, when the judges opened the ballot box and commenced the work of counting the votes. The checking of the records was rather a tedious task but the systematic manner in which the judges conducted the count, was so thorough that there was no chance for an error. The votes were counted on an adding machine and the results were checked and rechecked so that they would be sure to get the correct standing of each contestant.

One of the most interesting features of the contest was the friendliness of the rivalry between the contestants and this good will was even in stronger evidence as the announcement of the winners was made.

All the candidates have been gainers even those whose names do not appear on the list of winners. They have increased their circle of acquaintances and have cemented the bonds of friendship even closer than when admiring friends placed their names before the public as a candidate for a prize.

Among the congratulations received by the fortunate were those of the candidates who were in the race against them, personal friends in many cases, who had come to the end lack.

LILLIE E. JONES.

Card Of Thanks.

I am the proud possessor of a handsome diamond ring, one of the prizes offered by the Central Record in their Contest recently held, which I was only enabled to secure through the persistent and kindly efforts of my friends, and I take this means of expressing my sincere gratitude to each and every one of them.

Lillie E. Jones.

ing a few thousand votes to win. It requires a good deal of spirit to put up a battle of this nature and it takes a strong will to be a cheerful loser, but we are sure that this is the way the candidates feel who did not win.

The contest was conducted under the management of the W. C. Potts Contest Company of Grand Rapids, Michigan, one of the best known and most reliable firms in the business. Their local representative, Mr. Brad W. Cassin who had charge of the Record contest, gave every contestant fair and impartial treatment and conducted a fair and square campaign in every way.

Everybody was satisfied with the way the count was conducted and the work of the board of judges, who proved to be experts. With the help of the adding machine, they went through the task in a thorough and businesslike manner and are to be congratulated for the dispatch with which it was done.

The result of the contest will make a number of people happy for some time to come and they will have cause to remember the efforts of the Central Record in their behalf. The Record desires to thank the contestants and their friends for the interest taken and the good work which has been done in adding to the subscription list. It sincerely regrets that it is not able to give prizes to all who took part in the contest, for all deserve to win one of the coveted prizes, and it hopes those who did win will enjoy them to the utmost. Progress is the watchword of the Central Record and it goes forward in circulation, news and advertising. The management has gathered fresh inspiration for the work before it, and will keep improving the paper week by week, while the wonderful increase in circulation secured during the contest, it now offers one of the best advertising mediums among the weekly newspapers in Kentucky.

Landrum Loves Lancaster.

Louis Landrum admits this soft impeachment. Says The Danville Messenger: "While we are no spring chicken, and have our second set of corner teeth, yet we are not too old to enjoy a circus. Nor do we ever expect to live long enough to forget those happy days spent in the best town on earth." The last reference is to Lancaster, for which we forgive him, as he has evidently forgotten the delights of living in the capital of Madison — Richmond Cimax.

When The Boy Is A Problem.

"The high school period—including the years from fourteen to eighteen—is the most critical period in the life of the boy. President G. Stanley Hall of Clark College calls it the age of temporary insanity, others style it the fool period, the era of the birth of the will. At this time says a teacher, an active fermentation occurs that may produce either wine or vinegar." It is a time of restlessness, of egotism, of unbelief; in short, of vagabondage. The broad-shouldered, husky lad, with the strength and passions of a man and the judgment of a boy, scorns all advice from his elders, although never in his life did he stand in such need of it. The Germans have a way of expressing the period from fourteen to eighteen. They call it the Wander-Jahre. And truly for many of the three million of American boys at the age of adolescence these years are literally wander years."

The Hebrew name of M was Mem, water, and it is curious to note that the original form of this character in the most ancient manuscript is a wavy line, which to the not too particular ancients represented water. By some philologists the letter M as used by the Phoenicians is supposed to have come from a picture representing the human face, the two down strokes representing the contour of the countenance, the V stroke signifying the nose, the two dots, long since disused, and a stroke beneath the V representing the eyes and the mouth. The old Phoenician form of the letter does indeed bear a comical sort of resemblance to the human face.

Rotundity of Earth.

We are assured by competent authority that Thales of Miletus taught that the earth was of globular form so early as 640 B. C. Pythagoras demonstrated from the varying altitudes of the stars that the earth must be round. Aristarchus of Samos maintained that the earth turned on its own axis and revolved about the sun, which doctrine was held by his contemporaries as so absurd and revolting that the philosopher nearly lost his life B. C. 280. The wisdom of the ancients was, of course, lost sight of in the darkness of the "middle ages," and it took Galileo and Copernicus to restore the old knowledge to the world.—New York American.

Editor Central Record.
Lancaster, Ky.

I want to thank you for the beautiful ring which I received in the recent contest; also to express through your paper my appreciation of the valuable assistance given me by my friends.

Although I did not receive one of the first prizes I feel amply repaid for any efforts I put into it.

The Record is our most highly appreciated paper and I have tried to enlarge your subscription list that others may enjoy it too.

Very sincerely,

John C. Weber, and his famous organization of musicians that has played annually for Kentucky's Trots, will give a sacred concert at the new Ben Ah Theatre on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 12th. This will be a rare opportunity to hear Mr. Weber's Band together with his vocal and instrumental soloists in Lexington's new Playhouse.

Honor Roll.

Below is the honor roll for Sept. at the Lawson school. The efficient teacher being Miss Anna Holtzelaw.

Primary Grad—Ebbie B. Lawson, W. H. Furr Jr., Foster Napier.

1st Grade—Lillian Sutton.
2nd Grade—Curtis Robins, Wesley Miller.

3rd Grade—Easter Hammons, Lizzie Mae Eam, Lee Robins.

4th Grade—Alex Wooten, Beulah Edwards, Azile Elam.

5th Grade—Besale Lawson, Essie Ballard.

Louisa M. Alcott's best loved story, "Little Women", made into the sweetest and most gentle drama of our times, will be the season's most important dramatic offering at the new Ben Ah Theatre. See the quaint costumes, antique furniture, the famous orchard setting, and the characters of a story that is treasured in a million memories.

"Little Women" will be presented by Wm. A. Brady at Lexington's new Playhouse on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 10th, and 11th, with daily matinees. Superintendent of Public Schools, M. A. Cassidy, has instructed all Schools to close in time to permit those in attendance who desire to see the special matinee on Friday. By an agreement with the management the curtain for the Friday matinee will be held until 3:00 P. M., but will rise at the usual time for all other performances.

Fatal Error.

"N. Peck's wife leads him a rather merry gait, I fancy."
"Oh, yes. When he was courting her he told her one day she looked pretty when she was angry, and now it has got to be a habit."

Fate's Perversity.

A commuter was in a dreadful wreck. The collision had been head on, four coaches were telescoped, flames burst forth, the shrieks and groans of the dying mingled with the hiss of escaping steam.

The commuter, black as a coal, was dragged out by the feet from under a mound of charred and badly mangled corpses.

"Are you hurt?" he was asked.

"Hurt? Me? Of course I ain't hurt! I never am! I can't be! I carry an accident insurance policy."—Detroit Free Press.

The Doctor at Sea.

A veteran naval surgeon, speaking of the odd things that crop out in the service, said that one of the younger medical cranks in the navy discovered much virtue in sea water, and, no matter what disease came on, his first action was to throw down the patient's throat a large dose of the nauseating liquid. The crew soon learned to hate him thoroughly. In process of time he fell overboard in a choppy sea, and a great bustle ensued. In the midst of it the captain came up and anxiously inquired the cause. "Oh, nothing, sir," replied a tar, "only the doctor has fell into his medicine chest."—London Telegraph.

BALANCED RATIONS FOR DAIRY COWS

In order to economically feed a dairy cow it is always desirable to supply as much of the nutrients required in the roughage part of the rations as possible, says the Kansas Farmer. Alfalfa hay contains relatively much larger amounts of protein than corn silage. Both are very palatable forms of roughage and in combination form a most satisfactory and economical basis for a milk producing ration. For a cow of moderate production giving in the neighborhood of three gallons of milk a day, fifteen pounds of alfalfa hay and all the corn silage the cow will consume, which will ordinarily amount to thirty or thirty-five pounds daily, will supply sufficient digestible nutrient material for the production of this quantity of milk.

In order to produce larger quantities of milk if a cow has a capacity for producing more milk, it will be necessary to supply additional nutrients. Additional roughage cannot be consumed, so the extra nutrients required must be supplied in a more concentrated form. It is commonly estimated that about one pound of a properly balanced grain mixture must be supplied for each additional four pounds of milk.

For supplying this additional nutrient material in a concentrated form a combination of four parts corn chop, two parts bran and one part cottonseed meal would probably be the most satisfactory ration. One pound of this mixture would supply .12 pound of digestible protein, .32 pound digestible carbohydrate and .5 pound fat. Ten pounds of additional milk would require about four pounds of this mixture, or, in other words, a cow that is capable of producing thirty-five pounds of good average milk can be fed fifteen pounds of alfalfa hay, thirty or thirty-five pounds of corn silage and four pounds of this grain mixture. If the extra grain fed with this roughage ration should be cottonseed meal only, much more digestible protein would be supplied than would be needed for milk production. Since cottonseed meal is more expensive than cornmeal or bran, such a ration would necessarily be less economical than the properly balanced ration suggested.

Nearly one-fourth of the Guernsey cows or heifers which have lately made high records of milk or butter fat production are owned in Wisconsin, and almost without exception the owners are members of co-operative county breeders' associations which, with the aid of Professor George C. Humphrey of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, have been formed in their respective districts. One of the best monthly records was that of Taylor's Cream Cup, owned by C. C. Allen of Kenosha. This cow in one month produced 1,556 pounds of milk which yielded 82.62 pounds of butter fat, or the equivalent of 56.33 pounds of butter.

Additional four pounds of milk. For supplying this additional nutrient material in a concentrated form a combination of four parts corn chop, two parts bran and one part cottonseed meal would probably be the most satisfactory ration. One pound of this mixture would supply .12 pound of digestible protein, .32 pound digestible carbohydrate and .5 pound fat. Ten pounds of additional milk would require about four pounds of this mixture, or, in other words, a cow that is capable of producing thirty-five pounds of good average milk can be fed fifteen pounds of alfalfa hay, thirty or thirty-five pounds of corn silage and four pounds of this grain mixture. If the extra grain fed with this roughage ration should be cottonseed meal only, much more digestible protein would be supplied than would be needed for milk production. Since cottonseed meal is more expensive than cornmeal or bran, such a ration would necessarily be less economical than the properly balanced ration suggested.

How Much Seed Corn to Select.

It will require about seventeen ears of corn per acre to plant three kernels per hill in thick rowed corn. If you list, it is the editor's judgment that no more seed than this should be used on average good upland, and the kernels should be dropped as nearly as possible one in a hill and the space should be as equally distributed as possible. Remember, however, that in selecting the corn in the field you go over it rather hurriedly. When winter comes and you look the ears over carefully you will find many that will not suit you. Of those that do suit a number may not grow strong, unless the corn is properly dried and stored. A good rule is to select twice as many ears from good plants in the field as are needed to plant the required number of acres next year. This allows a very close selection to be made during the winter.—Kansas Farmer.

Hogging Off Corn.

There is no better way to fatten hogs with profit to the owner than to turn them loose in the cornfield and let them pick the corn themselves. Experimentation has proved and the experience of practical farmers in all parts of the state is that this method is a profitable one. Every one who has tried it agrees that it is an economical method of fattening pork. The time required to husk and crib the corn is saved. Not only that, but the hogs get the corn when it is fresh and more relished. More pounds of pork can be made from a bushel of corn "hogging off" than by eating husked corn.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Farm Water Supply.

A season such as we have just passed through should be a warning to every man handling stock in any considerable numbers to establish a thoroughly reliable water supply, says the Kansas Farmer. A thoroughly dependable water supply is an absolutely essential of every good live stock farm. It would seem that the tendency has been too much in the past to depend upon luck or circumstances in a great many cases to supply water for cattle and other stock.

WORRY.

Un governable worry is liable to lead a person to insanity and even to death. There must be a way of taking worry so that it shall do us good and not harm. Worry, rightly taken, should train to quietness, humility, patience, gentleness, sympathy.

Serious Error In Lancaster.

Lancaster Citizens Will Do Well To Profit By The Following.

Many fatal cases of kidney disease have reached an incurable stage because the patient did not understand the symptoms. Even today in Lancaster there are many residents making the same serious error. They attribute their mysterious aches and pains to overwork, or worry, perhaps, when all the time their rheumatic pains, back-ache bladder irregularities are most probably due to weak and ailing kidneys. If you are ill, if your kidneys are out of order, profit by this Lancaster resident's experience.

George Wright, Hotel Kengarian, Lancaster, Ky., says: "I willingly confirm all that I said some years ago praising Doan's Kidney Pills. They do all that is claimed for them. I suffered a great deal from my kidneys and back. Pains through my loins extended to my sides and over my kidneys. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and my kidneys became normal and the pains stopped."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

The fever patients of this community are reported doing nicely but two more cases have developed in the home of Mr. Joe Price.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd Grow were with their father Mr. W. N. Grow Sunday. Mr. Grow returned from Danville Hospital last Thursday, after a stay of five weeks, he underwent a very serious operation and is greatly improved in health, much to the delight of his many friends here and elsewhere.

NEURITIS FOLLOWS CRIPPLED NERVES

Painful Effects Of Chronic Rheumatism

Quickly Routed by Rheuma.

If your nerves are all crippled from attacks of Rheumatism, Neuritis can easily get a strong hold on the nerves. This most painful disease is one of the hardest known to expel, but RHEUMA can reach it if given a chance. This testimony is positive proof.

"Last March I was so crippled with Neuritis in left limb I could walk scarcely at all. Tried all remedies I heard of and had two physicians. Nothing did me any good until I used RHEUMA; also used ENGLISH MAR-HUE and NERVALINE—$2.00 worth of your medicines surely cured me.—Mrs. C. E. Hayes, Russell, Ky.

Underwood-Simmons Tariff Bill Receives President Wilson's Signature and Becomes a Law.

The Democratic administration has taken a great forward step toward the redemption of party pledges, and at the same time given promise of a material reduction in the high cost of living by the enactment of the Underwood-Simmons Tariff Bill, which received the signature of President Wilson and became a law on last Friday.

The law is the most liberal in the minds of many people since 1817, and the wisest in the eyes of many, and it is thought will redound greatly to the credit of its authors and President Wilson who so ardently advocated it. Under its provision the following articles are placed upon the free list:

Cattle, sheep and other food animals; flour, wheat and its products; eggs, bananas, sugar and molasses (in a short time).

On these articles of food the rates are reduced:

Oats, butter, beefs, storage eggs, peas, currants, chocolate and cocoa.

Other articles put on the free list are:

Wool and its products, agricultural implements, sewing machines, lumber, leather, shoes, pig iron, scrap iron and ferromanganese, cement, asphalt, sugar, machinery and school text books.

Treasury experts estimate that for the year ending July 1, 1914, the receipts under the bill will be $1,029,000,000, with expenditures of $1,013,000,000, and a surplus of $16,000,000. The surplus in 1915 is estimated at $18,000,000.

BRYANTSVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. R I Burton were in Richmond Monday.

Mr. W C Rose attended court at Harrodsburg Monday.

Mr. W M Jenkins is in Indianapolis for a two weeks visit.

Mr. G B Rose left Monday for Booneville on a business trip of several weeks.

Mrs. House and Mrs. Peele, of Nicholasville, have been visiting Mrs. W R Halcomb.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burton attended the Trots at Lexington several days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Herd, of Fort Worth, Tex, are visiting Mr. B F Patton and family.

Mrs. Eva Davis and son, Maurice, of Hillsboro Ind, are the guests of Mrs. Hallie B Sweeney.

Mrs. Margaret Parr, of Lebanon Ind., is expected soon to visit her sister, Mrs. Fanny Bryant.

Mrs. Hogan Ballard is at home again after a visit with her mother, Mrs. H L Elder, at Nicholasville.

Mrs. W J Hogan came home Saturday after a very pleasant two-weeks visit with relatives at Stanford.

Mr. Colby T Jenkins and Miss Mae Jenkins, of Georgetown, were the guests Sunday of Misses Anna Kay and Margaret Jenkins.

Miss Mayme Lee Ballard was in Lexington last week for a few days visit, she having gone over to see her cousin, Miss Marguerite Woolfolk, before she left for Washington, D. C. to attend school this year.

While out driving last Wednesday afternoon, the old family horse of Mrs. Logan Burke became frightened and ran off, throwing Mrs. Burke out and causing her to receive very severe injuries and having a narrow escape from death. She was in such a condition that it was impossible to be taken to her home and is still at Mrs. BPSwope's where everything possible is being done to aid her recovery. While she is in a serious condition it is hoped her injuries will not prove fatal.

News was received here last week of the death of Mrs. Anne Dunn, at her home in Noblesville Ind. Mrs. Dunn the sister of the late W J Hogan and has a number of relatives and friends in Garrard county who were very much grieved to hear of it. She had been in failing health for about two years and as she was 85 years of age, her death came as a shock, rather than a surprise as it had been expected for some time. She is survived by one son, Mr. W E Dunn, President of the Citizens Bank of Noblesville.

The social event of the season will be the wedding of Miss Lillian Leavell to Dr. Thomas Wesley Stallings of Cincinnati, which will occur next Wednesday evening at seven o'clock at the home of the bride in the country. It will be a most beautiful wedding in every particular, the music for the occasion will be played by Mrs. James Carpenter, of Crab Orchard, who is a very brilliant pianist and an artist of rare gift. Miss Hoffman of Cincinnati, will sing, the bridesmaid will be Misses Josephine Carpenter of Stanford and Margaret Harding of Danville. Mrs. M. R. Smith of Fort Smith Ark, sister of the bride will be matron of honor. The gentlemen of the bride's party are intimate friends of Dr. Stallings from Cincinnati.

Proposition For Fair Election Turned Down.

Lancaster, Ky., Sept 6, 1913

Pursuant to an appeal by the Progressive candidates for County offices in Garrard County, Ky., published in The Central Record for the last two weeks, the following candidates of the three political parties, whose names appear below, to be voted for at the coming November election; realizing how much it means to our people to have an election at which there are no corrupting influences used, and also realizing the growth of public sentiment along this line, and ever mindful of the fact that in a government of the people, the unpurchased majority must rule, we the undersigned do most solemnly pledge to the people of Garrard County and among ourselves that we are unalterably opposed to the use of any corrupting influences whatever and do bind ourselves to use neither money nor whisky nor will we allow it to be used by another in any way to secure our election.

We also further affirm that we have not in any way used any corrupting influences whereby we have bound any person or persons to vote for us or any other candidate at the coming November election.

Referring to the above agreement which was drawn and signed by the Progressive candidates on Saturday the 6th inst. to which they are pledged, we express our great disappointment on account of the fact that this appeal has been utterly ignored by all of the candidates of the other parties.

By their failure to come forward and agree to stand for clean elections, where no corrupting influences shall be used, they proclaim to the people of Garrard County, that they are in favor of present conditions now existing within our borders, which all good people regardless of past party affiliations must deeply deplore.

We are standing, in this elections, not alone for the offices, to which we aspire, for if that had been our only motive, we should never have been before you at this time, but we are standing for principles, which even our opponents must acknowledge are just and right.

We again express our deepest regret at the stand taken by those gentlemen, who are asking the good people of this county to elect them to fill the various offices for the next four years. We had a right to have expected better things from our opponents, when the very foundations of this Government today are being undermined by just such conditions as exist in this County.

We, therefore appeal to the people of Garrard County, to show on which side they stand; whether they are in favor of conditions as they now exist, or whether they are in favor of conditions for which the Progressive party is contending.

Signed:

J. F. Holtzclaw candidate for Representative.

J. B. Bourne candidate for County Judge.

R. S. Brown candidate for Sheriff.

John. M. Duncan candidate for County Clerk.

G. B. Anderson candidate for Jailor.

John Green candidate for Assessor.

J. C. Cricillis candidate for Magistrate District No. 1.

R. M. Moss candidate for Magistrate, District No. 2.

EXERCISE!

A person leading a quiet, sedentary life is healthy only by accident, unless he makes up for by a little vigorous, open air exercise. Cram a locomotive fire-box with coal, without removing the cinders, and the engine will become so clogged as not to work properly. The body is exactly like a locomotive; if it is not exercised, the waste products accumulate and the result is disease. Moreover, judicious exercise shakes up the organs of the body and increases their activity; it keeps the muscles in condition to meet the extraordinary emergencies which may come to any of us; and, if taken heartily, diverts the mind from its ordinary cares and lets a man return with new vigor and refreshed spirits to his tasks.

Ninety per cent of the women who bother the doctors with complaints of more or less vague complaints, need nothing but a loose dress, a hoe and a garden. Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission.

SUNSHINE!

The Italians have a saying, "Where the sunlight is shut out, the doctor is let in." Fire, steam and a few powerful chemicals are the only things that will kill disease germs as quickly as sunlight. The germ in the spit of a consumptive, exposed to the glare of the July sun for an hour or two, are dead or harmless. Nor is the sunshine any more friendly to the other tiny enemies of mankind. Consequently, leave your windows and shutters open for the fresh air and sunshine several hours every day. If you are afraid it is going to fade the carpet, take up the carpet. Bare floors are cleaner and consequently more healthful any way. Instead of carpets use rugs and frequently expose them to the fresh air and sunshine. Give the fresh air and sunshine as much access to your whole body as possible. Exercise out of doors daily, with garments no heavier than necessary. The fresh air and sunshine, well as the exercise, will stimulate the action of the skin in throwing off the waste products of the body. Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission.

PLACARDED!

When the physicians says "Scarlet Fever!" or "Diphtheria!" and a colored card is put on your front door, and you are not allowed to go out, and only the doctor can go back and forth, don't think that all this disturbance is useless, and intended simply to fill the pocketbooks of the doctors. These germ diseases are spread in ways so infinitely delicate that it is hard for us to understand them. More often than not too little rather than too much care is exercised. If the discharges of a typhoid patient are not thoroughly disinfected by formaldehyde, quicklime, or other powerful chemicals before being thrown out, it is perfectly possible for the germs to be carried in water under ground, or by flies through the air, for a long distance, to infect other people. The germs of scarlet fever may live in the clothes of the victims and months later infect the person who chooses to handle them. When the doctors' precautions bother you, remember that the ignorance, carelessness or obstinacy of some one else is responsible for the disease in your family, and co-operate with your doctor! Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission.

THE LAST OF THE FAMILY.

Out of thirty-two members of three generations of this rural Kentucky family, this one survives. At least sixteen died of consumption, all in the same house. There was no money to give them adequate care. A county tuberculosis hospital, which could have cared for the first cases and prevented the infection of the others, might have saved several lives in this one family.

POSTED

The undersigned hereby give warning to all persons not to trespass upon our lands for any purpose whatever as we will prosecute all offenders to fullest extent of the law. Hunters and Fishermen especially take notice.

G. W. Elam, R. L. Elkin, Ed M. Price, J. W. Sweeney, John M. Farra, W. G. Anderson

ASHAMED!

Lots of people seem proud to have appendicitis or nervous troubles because they think they are fashionable diseases, and are ashamed to be called consumptives because consumption is not fashionable. Feeling this way, they neglect diagnosis and medical care when they first detect the signs of consumption, thinking that, by simple neglect, the disease will disappear of itself. It is well within the truth to say that 5,000 lives are sacrificed annually in the United States through this false pride. The only thing to be ashamed of in having a case of tuberculosis in the family is the neglect of the disease and the consequent death of the sufferer; and such neglect deserves round censure because it will probably involve more than one person. Remember that an early diagnosis of consumption increases the chance of cure a thousand fold.

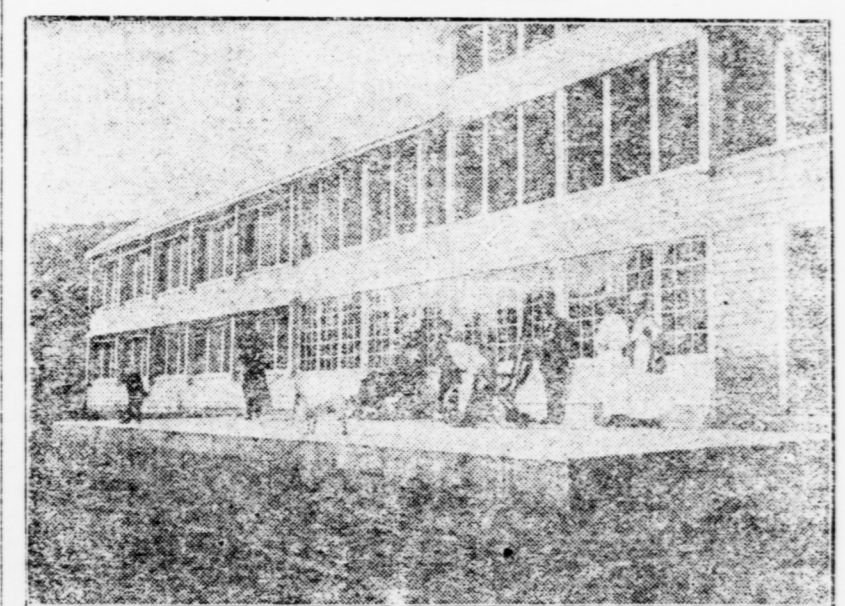

CARE OF THE CONSUMPTIVE

NOT DANGEROUS IN THE HOME IN THE EARLY STAGES OF THE DISEASE.

Important Information Regarding the Proper Care of the Patient—The Use of Material Eating Utensils—Care of the Clothes.

The home care of the consumptive in the beginning stage, under the supervision of a doctor or a nurse, is not dangerous to the other members of the household. The germs of the disease are almost wholly thrown off in the discharges from the mouth and nose, and a uniformly careful collection and destruction of this material will prevent the spread of the germs through the house. The consumptive should spit in a paper box or cloth which can be burned. Paper napkins should be used instead of the ordinary cotton or linen handkerchiefs to wipe the nose and lips, and these napkins should be carefully burned. The consumptive should have his own set of dishes, which should be washed separately in boiling water. His bed and table linen should first be soaked in a disinfecting solution or boiled for half an hour before being washed with the rest of the family laundry. He should wash his hands carefully before and after eating. He should never cough without a paper napkin held to his mouth. He should never kiss another person. These are practically all of the precautions; but they are very difficult to observe day in and day out that special sanatoria for the care of consumptives are almost essential. Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission.

SMALL COUNTY HOSPITALS PROVIDED FOR KENTUCKY

FULTON COUNTY TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITAL, GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y. This is a remodeled farmhouse. The entire cost, the small farm included, was about $9,500. It provides accommodation for 13 incipient cases in wards and 4 advanced cases in separate rooms.

The law creating the Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission at the last legislature provides also a plan for the building of small hospitals throughout the state for the proper treatment of tuberculosis. The plan in brief is as follows: The Fiscal Court of any county may declare that county a hospital. Or, by petition, the question may be submitted to a vote of the people at any regular election and, if carried, it is then the duty of the Fiscal Court to declare the county a hospital. Any group of counties touching one another may declare themselves a single district for this purpose by a vote at any general election which carries in each of the counties involved. Then, under certain restrictions in the law, the State Commission names a considerable group of citizens, men and women, of the county or counties involved, from which group the judges of these counties name a District Board of Tuberculosis Hospital Trustees. This Board then asks of the Fiscal Court funds to be raised in the regular levy of taxes. From these funds a site is selected, subject to the approval of the State Commission, and then the Board proceeds to erect the hospital. The State Commission is given a very general oversight of the future activities of the Board, and the construction and maintenance of the hospital. Patients are to be received from the district, either free or for a weekly charge, according to their financial condition, and the cost of maintenance not met by these charges must be paid by the district.

This is not so expensive a plan as it looks. After the construction of a reasonably substantial building for the purpose of administration, the cooking and serving of meals, and the housing of the nurses, the building or buildings for the actual housing of the consumptives can be more cheaply erected than those for any similar hospital purpose, because the patients are made to live and sleep in the open air, on verandas; very small, cheaply constructed buildings are sufficient for the purpose. The whole campaign against tuberculosis is based, not on sympathy, but on economics. Practically all of the sufferers are between the ages of 15 and 50, nearly all of them housewives or wage-earners, and many of them the parents of children. You can serve your community and insure yourself in no better way than by advocating the building of such an institution. Every cent it costs is more than returned by the distress it relieves and the poverty it prevents.

I have about 60 farm ranging from $500.00 to $40,000. See me before buying elsewhere. W. T. King the auctioneer and real estate man.

REST!

If the doctor says "Tuberculosis," follow exactly his orders in regard to ventilation, food, exercise and rest. He knows better than you do. This is especially true in regard to the rest and exercise, which have to be carefully gauged for each patient and each stage of the disease. Until the disease is checked and marked improvement in general condition and increased weight are noticed, almost absolute rest is essential. The disease is one that destroys the tissues of the body and uses up its energy rapidly. If you persist in using up your energy by work and exercise, the body has nothing left to fight with. Beware what the family medical books prescribe in the way of exercise for consumptives. No one prescription will answer for all cases, and this may be the one where their general prescription will send you to the grave-yard. If your responsibilities seem to make absolute rest for two or three or four months impossible, just remember that the progress of the disease will soon force you to it without the hope of recovery. Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission.

DISPENSARIES!

A free dispensary is a place where open certain hours of the week with a doctor and generally a nurse in attendance for the free examination of those who need his services. People means ought to go to their physician and pay the regular fee for such service. Inasmuch as physicians always render their services free to the needy, they generally favor the dispensary as saving time. Sometimes these dispensaries, or clinics, are held for all diseases and sometimes for special classes of disease, such as tuberculosis, or hook worm, or diseases of the eye, or nose and throat. Such a dispensary is an advantage to the whole community. The more the less hesitation about going there who are ill than about calling a physician; consequently malades are often more quickly diagnosed and put under control, and the contagious diseases are then prevented from spreading. Especially in the case of consumption, it is easier to get an examination of the children of the family in a dispensary than it is at home. The accurate information which can be better secured and tabulated in a dispensary than elsewhere is of great service in an general campaign for public health. A free dispensary can be cheaply started and maintained, because physicians are always willing to give an hour or two a week of their time to that work. Are you ready to give a little of your money for it in case one is started in your community? Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission.

Keystone Double Disk Harrow

The double disk harrow is designed for those farmers who wish to do two diskings in one. This makes it a particularly desirable implement for summer fallow purposes, to keep the proper mulch for moisture conservation.

The Keystone double disk harrow is made up with the regular Keystone disk harrow in front, and a cutaway attachment for the rear. The rear attachment is very solidly made, and is operated with one lever, convenient to the seat of the driver. If the farmer desires to use the front harrow only, the rear attachment can be easily removed in a few seconds.

If desired, the harrow will be furnished with cutaway disks in front, thus making a double cutaway disk harrow. This harrow is furnished regularly with the forecarrage, and in 5, 6 and 7-foot cut.

His Portrait

How a Rich Man Paid For an Injustice

By ANDREW C. EWING

Edgar Beckwith, at eighteen, having shown a marked artistic ability, wished to be an artist, but his father had recently died leaving no estate, and Edgar, far from having the means to study a profession, was obliged to support his mother. He obtained a position in the mercantile house of Goldwin & Co. at $15 a week.

Mr. Goldwin claimed that a business plant should be run on strictly business principles. He paid very low salaries, not inquiring into the honesty of his less important employees, his chief object being to get his work done cheaply. He figured that he could afford to lose small sums now and then rather than pay an increase of salaries for honesty. Besides, he had an expensive detective service which consisted of himself only. He would place bills on his desk in his private office, go out, set a watch on who entered, and if the bills were missing on his return would know who had stolen them. Then he would discharge the thief.

One day he placed a bill on his desk and went out, intending to be gone only a few minutes. Half an hour passed before he returned to find Edgar Beckwith just leaving the room.

"Come back," said Goldwin. "You went back into the room and when asked what he had wanted said that he had been sent with a message by the head of one of the departments. While he was delivering the message Goldwin was looking for the bill he had left exposed. It was gone. He said nothing about it to Edgar, but the next morning the boy was notified that he was discharged.

Edgar was not minded to submit patiently to an imposition. He went to Mr. Goldwin and said to him that since his services were no longer required he would not object to leaving the concern, but a certificate of good character would be necessary to enable him to find another place.

"It's against my rule to give certificates of good character. I require none when I hire persons, and what I don't ask I don't give."

"Then tell me the reason of my discharge."

"That I decline to do also. Should I give you the reason you would call upon me to prove it. That would take time. Time is money."

Edgar saw by the resolute look on the man's face that he would gain nothing by pressing the matter and left with anger in his heart. He went straight to the head of his department and asked for an explanation. He was given the reason of his discharge and advised not to stir the matter, because it could only result to his injury.

There had been two other persons in Goldwin's private office besides Edgar, one of whom had taken the bill. But it would be difficult to prove this even if an opportunity had been offered. Edgar went home and talked the matter over with his mother. After thinking of it she counseled him to swallow the pill. Since he had not been openly accused it was not incumbent upon him to make a defense, and if he made a defense there was every chance that he would not be able to prove his innocence.

It happened at this time that news came of the death of an uncle of Edgar's, who left him the sum of $3,000. He resolved to apply a part of it to studying art, and since this would require the necessity of his obtaining another position he concluded to accept his mother's advice. But he swore to himself that a companion object to success in his profession should be to "get even" with the man who had refused him an opportunity to vindicate himself from a charge of being a thief.

Young Beckwith's talent lay in transmitting a human face to canvas. This was evident from the first, and he resolved to become a portrait painter. Nevertheless he painted portraits for years before he obtained a reputation for excellent work. But at last he received an order to paint the portrait of a prominent judge on the bench and succeeded in making a very lifelike representation of his subject. The painting was hung in a courthouse, and every one who saw it admired it.

From this time Beckwith received orders from prominent men, and every portrait of such added to his reputation. Not only prominence in his art, but money, came to him. Persons of wealth flocked to him to have themselves represented on canvas.

Twelve years passed since Beckwith had ceased to be a clerk and become an artist. He had grown a beard, and his hair was already flecked with gray. A great change had come to his appearance since he had been an employee in the house of Goldwin & Co. One morning a carriage drove up to his studio and a man came out the stairs. The moment he entered Beckwith recognized him as his former employer. But the artist saw that he was not himself recognized.

"I believe you are a portrait painter, sir," said the visitor in a tone he would have used if he had been asking if a man sold mouse traps.

"I am," replied Beckwith, dreading lest his voice should give him away. Goldwin went up to a portrait standing on a table, took out a pair of glasses, put them on and inspected it. Beckwith went on with the work he was doing.

"What's your price for a portrait of that size?" asked Goldwin.

"The size doesn't make any difference as to the price."

"Well, what will you charge to paint my portrait? I don't want it myself, but my family do. If it doesn't cost too much I'll humor them."

"Five hundred dollars."

"Five hundred dollars! How many portraits can you paint in a year?"

"A dozen perhaps."

"That's $8000 for sitting here daubing paint. Why, I don't pay any one of my heads of departments in my business half that, and they're all first class business men."

To this the artist made no reply.

"If you'll paint my portrait that size, painting, frame and all, for $250, it's a go."

"Five hundred is my price."

Goldwin spent some time trying to obtain a reduction. Finally it occurred to him that after all, perhaps, he would not need to pay anything till the portrait was finished and the artist, having expended his time on it, would then probably take less for it rather than have it on his hands.

"You'll want your money, I suppose," he said, "on delivery of the goods."

"Yes."

"Very well; go ahead."

Beckwith arranged with his subject for the sittings, and Goldwin departed. While the man of business was planning to beat the artist, the artist was planning to beat the man of business. But Goldwin was in this respect in his element, while Beckwith was not. Though during the sittings that followed he racked his brain for some plan by which he might get his revenge for that past injustice which still rankled within him, his inventive powers failed him. One thing he resolved upon—he would paint the best portrait of his subject that he was capable of painting.

The features are expressive of the character, and Goldwin's features were no exception to the rule. Beckwith while painting drew his subject away from his coyness by chatting with him on other subjects and thus caught his best expression. When the portrait was finished the man it represented seemed to live. One would suppose he was about to speak, and speak pleasantly. Goldwin told the artist to send the portrait to his house, but Beckwith preferred to keep it till he got his money and frankly told Goldwin that if he would send for it with a check for $500 it would be delivered to the messenger. Goldwin grumbled at this and went away.

The next day Beckwith received a note from his client stating that the portrait did not come up to his expectations and he had concluded not to accept it. Beckwith made no reply to the note and in time received another stating that since Goldwin preferred to pay for the time spent on the portrait he would pay half the amount charged, $250. To this also Beckwith paid no attention, but sent the picture to a dealer for sale.

One day Goldwin was informed that his portrait was hanging in an art store; that it was being visited by connoisseurs and pronounced a remarkable piece of work. It had not yet been sold, for the artist had set a very high price on it. Goldwin at once went to the store, saw his portrait and asked the dealer the price for it. He was informed that it was $10,000. Goldwin went at once to an attorney, whom he directed to take steps to claim the portrait as his property. But when the lawyer called for the correspondence in the case and read copies of his client's letters to Beckwith he said he had no case.

Goldwin found himself in an unpleasant position. His portrait—pronounced a work of art—was for sale, and persons were asking why he did not buy it. To do so would cost him $9,500 more than the price he would have paid had he accepted it. He sent an agent to Beckwith to try to effect a compromise. The agent returned with a statement from the artist that the painting was making a great reputation for him and he had decided not to sell it, but keep it before the public. Goldwin decided not to be "done" that way and let the matter rest.

The picture was withdrawn from exhibition, and when it appeared again the covetous expression that had been left out was in it. This being reported to the original, he went to see it again and was furious. Again he went to his lawyer and directed him to prosecute the artist for ridiculing him before the world. The lawyer showed him cartoons of prominent men in the newspapers and informed him that it would be much more difficult for him to recover in his own case than for Goldwin to do so. Besides, any jury would decide against him. If he wished to own the picture he must pay the price.

Goldwin sent again to Beckwith, asking him to make a price on the portrait. Beckwith made a price of $25,000. Goldwin made no reply to the offer. Again the picture was withdrawn, and when it reappeared the covetous look on the face had become miserly. Goldwin tried again to buy it, but the price had gone up to $30,000. Goldwin feared that if he did not pay it the expression would become worse and the price would go higher.

He sent word to the artist to ask whether, if the $30,000 was paid, he would restore the original expression to the face. Beckwith agreed to do so and intimated that if the money were paid him he would distribute it among the poor. This closed the bargain, the covetous look on the face disappeared, and the poor were richer by $30,000.

When Goldwin opened the case containing his portrait a statement of the true reasons for the great rise in its price lay where it would be seen.

Huber's Daughter

She Was the Last of His Children Unmarried, and He Could Not Give Her Up

By EDITH V. ROSS

In one of the little villages overlooking the Lake of the Five Cantons in Switzerland there lived a retired watchmaker named Huber. For years he had made watches in Lucerne, and when he had saved enough of his earnings to live without work he bought a chalet on the lake shore, near the city, where he could pass the rest of his life in ease and comfort.

His children had grown to manhood and womanhood and left the paternal abode, except Katrina, a lass of eighteen. Huber, who was a widower, held on to her as one will keep his last dollar, dreading to have a man come near her lest he take her away from him. But so far as the old man knew there was no one who wanted her or whom she wanted.

The truth is that Katrina, knowing her father's wish, that she should discourage all suitors, assured him that she would not leave him in his old age. Indeed, when the matter of marriage was broached it was by Huber himself, Carl Gotthold, about thirty-five years old, who had succeeded to the old man's watch business, went to see his former partner one day and asked for his daughter. Huber told him that Katrina was not to marry, but remain with him always.

Gotthold, who had a persuasive tongue in his head, represented to Huber that when he died Katrina would be a middle aged woman whom no man would care to marry and would thereafter live a lonely life. "If you will give her to me," he said, "I will come here to live with you, going into the city every morning to business and returning in the evening. You will thus keep her with you, and when you die she will not be alone in the world."

Now, Gotthold had considerable money that he had inherited from his father, besides his watch business. His proposition struck Huber favorably, though he did not admit it. But before Gotthold left him he promised to think of the matter. He did think of it and made up his mind that he had better accept the proposition. He said nothing for some time to his daughter, for in Europe parents have for centuries been accustomed to arrange marriages for their children.

Katrina kept a boat, and when she wished to go to any place on or near the margin of the lake she would go down to the little shed where she kept it, take it out and pull out on the bottom of the water. One evening while near the middle of the lake a sudden squall came up and overturned her boat. She clung to it till another boat approached her and a young man in it took her aboard, righted her boat and pulled his, towing her boat, to the nearest point of land. There he built a fire, and she dried his clothing by its warmth.

The two remained there for some time waiting for the storm to subside, then re-entered the young man's boat, and he pulled her to her landing place. He asked her if he might come and see her, and she refused to let another boat approach her and a young man in it took her aboard, righted her boat and pulled his, towing her boat, to the nearest point of land. There he built a fire, and she dried his clothing by its warmth.

Who knows but that if Katrina had given this young man, Caspar Beck, permission to visit her he would never have availed himself of it. Be this as it may, her refusal, which was not dictated by an unwillingness on her part to receive him at once, filled him with a desire to break through the barrier that stood between them. But he said nothing to her of this, apparently accepting her refusal as final, and with a goodby he pulled out on the lake toward his home near Lucerne.

Katrina reached her father's house when he was absorbed in Gotthold's proposition. Consequently she did not receive as close a questioning as to where she had been during the storm as might have been expected. But the old man had no idea of broaching the matter concerning her future until he had definitely made up his mind on the subject, and his mind was far from being made up. Gotthold knew that if he got Katrina it would not be soon and, having made his proposition, waited patiently for the old man to come to a decision. The applicant had nothing further to do in the matter, for Huber would not be influenced and whichever way he decided his decision would be final.

After his rescue of Katrina Caspar Beck often went out on the lake in his boat purposely to meet her. One evening shortly before sunset he saw her pulling toward her boat house and, seeing with all his strength, he intervened. He asked her if she would not remain out a little longer, and she consented. Helping her with his boat, he took hers in tow and pulled southward in the direction of Lucerne.

It was after dark when Katrina returned and found her father worrying about her. This time he questioned her more closely as to where she had been and noticed that her usual frank expression was replaced by a troubled look. Perhaps he feared the true cause of her detention. At any rate, from that moment he resolved to accept Gotthold's proposition.

The next morning Huber went to Lucerne, saw Gotthold and told him that he might have his daughter. The two went to an attorney, who drew up an agreement by which Gotthold was to settle a part of his possessions on Katrina, was to leave her with her father so long as he lived, and Huber agreed to give a stipulated amount for a dowry. Katrina herself, most concerned of all, was not consulted. Indeed, her father, who was very deliberate, did not tell her of the arrangement for two weeks after it had been made.

During this fortnight Caspar and Katrina had met frequently on the lake, where they were not likely to be observed by her father. The forbidden fruit, which is always sweetest, worked on the emotions of the two and stimulated the passion that was growing between them. Katrina, who loved her father and realized the obedience required of her, suffered with her newly found pleasure. Her father noticed that something was troubling her and concluded to bring about her nuptials in the hope that they would drive it away.

The principal cause of Katrina's distress was that she had got wind of the match her father had arranged for her with Gotthold. She was at liberty to write her lover, but she dare not receive a letter from him lest it fall into the hands of her father. As soon as she learned that she was to be given to Gotthold she wrote Caspar of the fact, telling him at the same time that they must succumb to the plan. There was but one other alternative—that she should refuse to marry any one, remaining unwed with her father. He might consent to the latter alternative, but that he would consent to her marrying Caspar, who was but a few years older than herself and without any means whatever, was not to be considered.

On receipt of her letter Caspar abandoned all caution. He resolved to see Katrina at once and persuade her to defy her father. Getting into his boat, he pulled toward her home, reaching it after dark. Seeing a light in her window, which was accessible by means of a trellis, he climbed it and appeared before her. Standing on the trellis, he told her that he would not give her up and remain alive. The idea of being the cause of his death well nigh drove her to madness. She begged him to go away and accept the situation. During the interview he climbed into the window. Frightened lest he be discovered there, she promised him that if he would go away she would refuse to marry any one, the only alternative her father could be expected to accept.

Caspar, thinking he could not accomplish any more, at least at the time, was about to depart when a step was heard coming toward the room. It was so near that within a few seconds whoever was coming would enter. Caspar, seeing some jewels on a bureau, seized them. Katrina convulsively clutched his wrist. Huber came in and saw a man clasping his daughter's jewels, she apparently endeavoring to prevent his getting away with them. Caspar's move won. Huber seized him by the shoulder, and Caspar dropped the jewels.

"Let me go," he cried. "It will kill my poor mother to know that her son is a thief."

Without reply Huber, keeping his grip on Caspar, took him down the stairs and out on to the porch, where he set up a shout that aroused his nearest neighbor, who came to his assistance. The two took their prisoner to the basement, where they locked him in. Then Huber returned to his daughter, whom he found just recovering from having fainted. She asked what had become of the thief and was told that he was locked in the cellar. In the morning he would be taken to Lucerne. She must go to bed and try to sleep, for she would be required to go to the city and appear against the robber.

Katrina begged her father to let the man go for his mother's sake, but Huber was not so merciful and paid no attention to her request. Within half an hour the house was closed and those in it supposed to be asleep. There was but one opening, a door to the room where the prisoner was confined, and to that Huber had the key.

Katrina lay awake thinking. To go to Lucerne and appear against her lover with the evidence that was expected from her would send him to prison probably for many years. To tell the truth would defeat the object for which her lover had sacrificed himself—to save her good name. A third course which might be successfully carried out suggested itself to her.

Rising, she put on her clothes and crept downstairs to her father's room. The door was ajar, and, going in, she felt for the chair on which he always hid his clothes. In his trousers pocket she found the key to the basement. Going there, she unlocked the door. In a moment she felt her lover's hand clasp hers. Without a word she led him out into the open.

"Go," she said.

"Not without you."

"Then you must go to jail or I be disgraced."

"I will go to jail."

She stood irresolute. Placing an arm to her waist, he hurried her down to his boat.

When the next day the two returned a married pair and confessed the story to Huber he made a virtue of necessity and on their promise not to desert him pardoned them.

space below this heading is for the exclusive use of our farmer subscribers, and is for the sale of stock, grain and such things on farm as the farmer cannot afford to advertise. No notice will be accepted over four lines, and will be only in two issues of the record, free of charge.

A good yearling, bay pony for sale. Miss Anna Bell Burnside, Lancaster, Ky.

J. B. Bourne sold a nice road mare to J. L. Wiggins, of Wilson, N. C. for a fancy price.

T. C. Rankin purchased six mules in Richmond Monday at a cost of $160, each. J. B. Bourne four mule colts, average of $70.

LOST: Black sow with white stripe in face will weigh about 140 lbs. W. R. Cook, Phone No. 44.

Strayed to my place about 2 weeks ago a sorrel horse. Fisher Herring, Preachersville, Ky.

I have a few bushels of well screened, blue stone seed wheat for sale. Phone 224-B. Wade Walker.

FOR SALE: Six Indian Runner ducks and one drake for $4. Black Minorca Cockerels, pure stock, $1 each. Towles T. Walker, Phone, 347-U.

Lost.

Sorrel horse, about eight years old, white spot in forehead, two white hind feet, mane slightly bobbed. Strayed from Lancaster about 10 days ago. Mrs. Mary Perciful, Cartersville, Ky.

FOR SALE: House and lot, store room and stock of goods. Alex Prewitt, Hackley, Ky.

W. B. Burton bought a load of horses and mules at Franklin, Ind., for the Wilson Live Stock at the following average: 14 mules at $185.00 and 11 head of horses at an average of $170 in Richmond last Monday he also purchased 12 head of horses average, $150 and 8 mules at $200 each. On Thursday of this week he shipped to Wilson, N. C. 12 head horses and 12 mules the latter averaging $200 each. Mr. Burton also made the following individual purchases; one mule of John Hicks, for $200, one of W. L. Huffman for $150, paid of Mr. Cox, of Kirksville, for $475, one of Mr. Donehue, for $225.

REX HELTON

The Handsome Stallion of Mark Goins Sells for Fancy Price.

Mr. Mark Goins, of Marksbury sold his premium saddle stallion, Rex Helton, yesterday to J. I. Hamilton and R. E. Henry. The price was private but knowing the horse as we do and the many fancy figures that Mr. Goins has refused for him, the price was evidently a handsome one. Rex Helton is one of the best bred horses in the state, being by Rex Peavine and a half brother to the noted Edna Mae. He is a fine individual, with perfect confirmation and and gait and it seems unfortunate that such a good horse should leave the state.

It is the intention of the new owners to ship him with other stock to El Dorado, Ark., in the next few days.

Lewis Carroll's Humor.

An English magazine gives some amusing pieces of Lewis Carroll's humor from the forgotten pages of Oxford pamphlets. During the election at Oxford in 1865 he gave vent to the following Euclidean definition: "Plain superficiality is the character of a speech in which, any two points being taken, the speaker is found to lie wholly with regard to those two points." A note is also given on the right appreciation of examiners: "A takes in ten books and gets a third class; B takes in the examiners and gets a second. Find the value of the examiners in terms of books, also their value in terms when no examination is held."

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

(By Wm. F. Miller.)

Mrs. F. M. Tindler was a visitor at our school one day last week.

The parents are cordially invited to visit our school at least once a month.

Everyone enjoyed the exercises given by Miss Noland's room Friday morning.

Miss Robinson will visit her mother at Dampbellsville, Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Sam Johnson was a visitor at our school Friday and was present for Miss Noland's exercise.

Mrs. Alex Walker, and daughter Miss Virginia Pearl and Miss Effie Caneer were visitors at our school Friday.

Through an error last week, we failed to give Miss Mason's room, credit for her much enjoyed entertainment last Friday week.

Our boys are practicing hard every day and we will no doubt have a Foot Ball team of which all Lancaster people will be proud.

Prof. Caneer has given the hour every Friday morning for exercises by the different rooms. Everyone is cordially invited.

Miss Dean's room had the honor of getting the hour off Friday for most improvement in marching in and out of the building and to and from classes.

Mr. Caneer, Misses Robinson, Mason, Noland, Dean, Smith, Anderson and Brashear are in attendance at the Institute being held at Danville this week.

Only a few more pictures remain un-sold of the school building, and all the pupils should get one before they are gone. If you want one see Prof. Caneer.

The Foot Ball game Saturday between Freshmen and Seniors and Sophomores and Juniors was much enjoyed by a large number of spectators, the game was won by the Frs. and Srs. by a score of 6 to 0.

The feature of the game was the playing of Swope, Lawson, Acton and Givens for the Srs. and Herron and Bourne for Jrs.

Mr. R. E. McRoberts made a business trip to Louisville this week.

Mr. J. R. Mount is visiting friends this week in Lagrange and Louisville.

Mr. W. C. Sanders and sister, of Croy, and Miss Lula Crutchfield, of Wilmore were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Johnson Jr. Thursday.

Mrs. Emma Elkin and Mrs. J. S. Johnson, Jr. and little daughter, Anna C. were guests last week of the latter's mother, Mrs. Mary A. Sanders, at Croy.

The many friends of Mrs. J. A. Amon who is in the Norton Infirmary at Louisville, will be glad to know that she is improving rapidly and will be able to return home in a few days.

LOST: Cuff button monogram W. C. P. Return to Record Office.

Lost: Vest pocket memoranda book, either at Burton's sale or between the sale and Lancaster, on day of sale. Return to Record office or John M. Farra.

RHEUMATISM AND BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Prof. Budlong Was Quickly Relieved Of Both Afflictions By Using Rheuma.

If you suffer from any form of Rheumatism, remember that RHEUMA goes to work quickly to remove the cause, not simply to relieve the distress. Many years' use has demonstrated that it goes to the seat of the disease and expels the poisonous matter through the natural channels—the kidneys, bowels, liver and skin.

"For many years I was troubled with Rheumatism, also with Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. I suffered awfully. Tried many advertised remedies. After using your truly remarkable preparation, RHEUMA, I was fully cured."—Prof. C. J. Budlong, Sound View, Conn. RHEUMA is guaranteed by R. E. McRoberts & Son, who sell it for 50 cents a bottle.

There will be regular services at the Methodist church next Sunday evening.

Horses In Demand.

Mr. W. B. Burton has received news from the Wilson Live Stock Co., at Wilson N. C. that the car of stock which he shipped them a short time since has been entirely disposed of and asking that he gather together and ship more stock as quickly as possible. This indicates a good market for Garrard county stock.

Change In Mail Service.

Beginning next Monday Oct 13th, a mail clerk will be placed on the train running from Louisville to Richmond and return and due in Lancaster at 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. The mail service will be discontinued on train 9 and 10, the trains arriving here 8:45 p. m. and 5 a. m. The above information was telephoned here from Paint Lick and is apparently authentic. The day service while very acceptable to our people will not make up for the loss of mail service on the other trains.

Judge Benton In Madison.

Judge James M. Benton opened the Madison Circuit Court on last Monday and proceeded to give the same charge to the grand jury as he gave in Clark county, which was so prolific of unforeseen results. He dwelt at length on the matter of election frauds and insisted that his jury make a full and complete investigation along these lines.

There are few counties, shame that it can be said, in Central Kentucky which are free from this pernicious evil, but it will not be the fault of Judge Benton if they continue to exist in his district.

We do not say that there has been election frauds in our neighboring county of Madison, but if there has, we will venture the assertion that there are some "politicians" up there who just now are experiencing the sensation of cold chills creeping along their spinal columns.

W. Vernon Richardson Tipped As Compromise Candidate For Internal Revenue Collectorship At Danville.

No one has as yet been appointed to succeed W. W. Wiseman as Internal Revenue Collector for the Eight District at Danville, and the many candidates who have long been on tender hooks see no immediate relief from their suspense. The latest rumor from Washington is that W. Vernon Richardson of Danville, who is Senator James' private secretary, is being favorably spoken of as a compromise candidate for the fat position.

Well, in the event that Col Tommie Robinson cannot have the plum, and there must be a compromise man given the position, we had as leave see Richardson land it as any man in the world; he is a true blue democrat, courteous, polite and well qualified, and above all he is a newspaper man.

A WARNING WHICH MUST NOT GO UNHEEDED.

One week's continuance of the drought and the same demand upon our water supply that has been made in the past and our Lake will be dry. There is now in the Lake about four feet of available water. From this the Ice plant uses 8000 gallons per day, the Light plant 6000 gallons per day and the Garrard Milling Co. 3000 gallons per day. The shutting down of any one of these industries means the work of a hardship upon our people. With the judicious use of the water there will be sufficient for these people and for use in case of fire for some time to come.

I have repeatedly warned the people against wasting the water supply but it has gone unheeded by many, and the shortage is in a measure due to this disregard. By continuing the misuse of the water supply you will work a hardship upon the entire community. L. E. Herron, Sup't

HIGH PRICES

Predicted For Tobacco—Old Crop Practically Exhausted And New Crop Not Sufficient.

In a review of the tobacco situation E. T. Robards, of Lexington, tobacco expert and statistician, says manufacturers are confronted with conditions unknown in history of trade in half a century.

Widespread drought resulted in a short crop. He says that all of the stock of burley held by the Cincinnati and Louisville dealers will have been exhausted by January 1st, depriving the small manufacturer of his source of supply to a great extent. There is no old tobacco, he says, in the country and large manufacturers have only enough to run them for a year. His report includes the significant statement: "Beyond doubt the 1913 tobacco crop is from 50,000,000 to 75,000,000 short of absolute annual requirements, which will mean more strenuous efforts put forth by large manufacturers to corner the available supply, resulting in the keenest competition and soaring of prices."

New Consolidated School At Buena Vista Began Operations Last Monday.

The Second In The County. The handsome new Consolidated School Building at Buena Vista has been completed and the school opened on last Monday morning. Because of the Institute in session this week and all teachers are required to attend, it required the sanction of the State Superintendent to allow this school to be opened, which was readily granted because of the fact that the entire faculty had attended an institute in other counties this year. The opening of the school was delayed because of the inability to complete the building soon.

The people of the Buena Vista consolidated district have taken the initiative in the matter of providing means of transportation for the pupils who live at a distance from the school, taking a step which will doubtless be followed in the near future in other sections of the county. Some time ago they voted a tax for the purpose of defraying the cost of transportation of the pupils to and from school, but after purchasing four handsome closed wagons for this purpose they found the amount at their disposal would not be sufficient to defray the expense for more than half the term; they immediately called another election asking for an additional taxation of 25 cents upon the $100; the election was held on last Saturday and the citizens of that locality demonstrated their interest in the cause of education by voting the additional tax, having votes to spare over the necessary two thirds majority. We hope in the near future to run a cut of the edifice, the wagons, faculty and pupils.

A Loud Hiss.

Hair Hints

Worthy The Attention Of People Who Wish To Preserve The Hair.

Never use a brush or comb found in public places, they are usually covered with dandruff germs. Shampoo the hair every two weeks with pure soap and water, or a good ready prepared shampoo.

Use Parisian Sage every day, rubbing thoroughly into the scalp. This delightful and invigorating hair tonic, which R. E. McRoberts & Son sells in a large 50 cent bottle, is guaranteed to quickly abolish dandruff—to stop hair falling and scalp from itching or money refunded.

To put life and beauty into dull, dry or faded hair and make it soft and fluffy surely use Parisian Sage—it is one of the quickest acting hair tonics known.

[This matter must not be reprinted without special permission.]

That section is bound to prosper in which the number of silos used is increasing and the number of dairy cows increasing and their quality being improved.

Nine times out of ten the pupil who causes most trouble in school is the one that runs wild at home—that is, has not been brought up to have a proper regard for parental authority and discipline.

It is fair to assume that any boy who prefers to stay at home and cultivate corn when there is a circus in town is cut out for a farmer and that it would be injudicious to coax him into taking up any other vocation.

Every farm should have its patch of rye. This will not only furnish good late fall and early spring pasture for the hogs and cattle, but if plowed under in the spring will furnish a humus of which most soils are much in need.

Onions, potatoes and other root crops keep best in cellars in which the temperature is a few degrees above the freezing point. Squashes and cucumbers, however, will keep longer if they are put where it is dry and rather warm, a condition which is usually found in the pantry.

For the northern portion of the corn belt, where it is nip and tuck to mature a crop between spring and fall frosts, it is an important point to select for seed ears those that are low growing and early maturing. This means that the succeeding crop will be of this general character.

Cowhorn turnips are not only valuable when plowed under as a green manure, but they bore down deep into the soil and tend to make it loose and friable. Furthermore, they make use of potash and phosphoric acid, which other plants cannot utilize, and thus their decay is useful to the soil.

In estimating the returns from any given prospective enterprise it is well to cut the highest estimate in two. In this case the actual results will often exceed the more moderate expectations and satisfaction be felt, while if the returns are considerably less than the higher estimate there is sure to be disappointment.

The president of an electric company who lives near Libertyville, Ill., had on exhibition this year at the Lake county fair a display of vegetables that he had grown with the aid of electrical currents, which were sent through the soil by wires strung at intervals. The vegetables that are produced with this electrical stimulus are remarkably large and thrifty.

Some pretty good authorities on corn hold that the fact that an ear is not covered clear to the tip with kernels is no reason for discarding it for seed purposes, their contention being that the plant started out to produce a larger and more vigorous ear of corn than the soil and weather conditions prevailing permitted. This idea is not in accordance with the advice usually given as to selecting for seed ears only those that are filled with kernels to and over the tip, but there seems to be some reason in it nevertheless.

The "miracle" wheat, about which a good deal appeared in the papers a couple of years ago, is said by some who have been investigating the matter to have come originally from Egypt, it being taken from that country to Russia and thence to Alaska, whence it was brought to this country. One Oregon farmer who has been giving this wheat a test reports a yield of eighty-four bushels per acre, but he attributes this yield more largely to the character of the soil in which it was grown and the special care given it than any factor favoring of the miraculous. In this case the wheat was many headed and grew to a height of about five feet.

Many farmers make the mistake of moving to town in their advanced years when they have accumulated a sufficient competence to guard them against the demands of the rainy day. Too often this move is accompanied by a radical change from much to practically no physical exercise, which has in many cases disastrous physical results. Added to this is the further fact that many such farmers, not realizing the cost of privileges which the town affords, are against any improvements which increase their taxes and as a result of this acquire a reputation of being fossils and tightwads because they do not like to see their taxes increase. On the farm there is usually something which the retired farmer will think needs doing, and in the doing of it he will be the better physically and in every other way.

SMILES AND SUNSHINE.

Brightness and joy are never lost, never die out like an ill tended fire. Every joyous thought which you send out into the world is a gift to mankind, and every smile is your contribution to the sunshine of the world. And the human heart can never have too much sunshine. So do not stint your share of the supply.

A Mother's Sacrifice. Legends in India run that if a woman stricken with leprosy suffers herself to be buried alive the disease will not descend to her children. There was in the northwest provinces of India the wife of a gardener on whom the loathsome malady had fallen. Children were born to her. The disease grew worse. She importuned her husband to bury her alive. He at last, yielding to her prayers, summoned his son. The two dug the grave, and four neighbors assisted at the sepulture. So the woman died. These remarkable facts were investigated in a magistrate's court and were fully proved.—London Mail.

A Tree and a Millstone. "Sometimes nature turns to an unexpected use the handiwork of man," says Dr. Charles G. Percival in his book, "The Trail of the Bulldog." At Sheldon's mill, near South Dovers, N. Y., there is a very comfortable seat of stone around a huge tree which puzzles visitors, as the stone is natural without a single break to show how it got around the tree trunk. The story is that a discarded millstone lay on the ground for many years and a seed blown by the wind dropped into the core of the stone and grew there, finally growing into a tree, filling the hole in the center of the stone, and as the tree grew in size the stone was gradually lifted, making the unique seat.

Same, but More of It.

Sitting in a Broadway restaurant the other evening were two young women who had not met for four years. One of them had grown stout, and the other had admitted that she wouldn't have recognized her old friend under ordinary circumstances. They sat silently looking at each other for a moment, when the heavy weight inquired of her friend: "What are you thinking about?" "I was just trying to see whether your expression is the same as it used to be," said her friend. "Just the same," the girl with the avoirdupois declared, "only more of it."—New York Globe.

Land and Water.

It cannot, of course, be said for certain that we yet know the greatest depth of the sea. But Sir James Ross once took soundings 900 miles to the westward of St. Helena and found the depth to be just under six miles! And the pressure of the water at only 1,100 yards is equal to 15,000 pounds to the square inch. Altogether there are about 147,000,000 square miles of water on the earth to 49,500,000 square miles of land.—London Globe.
